

Season 8 Yunguseng Dojang Personal Report

Alonso Gragera

Current Season result: 10 win 5 loss

Total season result: 40 win 35 loss

YD Rating point : 1032

50 is the average level of your strength, so if you get more than 50, it means you are stronger at that part than the average level of your strength.

Personal Analysis		0	5	10	15	20	25	30	35	40	45	50	55	60	65	70	75	80	85	90	95	100
General Parts	Opening
	Middle Game
	Endgame
	Reading
	Intuition
Specific Parts	Technique (Local combat, using techniques)
	Strategy (1-2-3 reading, making a good plan)
	Mind control (Following hands, play fastly, too aggressive or passive)
	Knowledge (Opening formations, patterns etc)
	Game experience (controlling games)
	Life & death, Tesuji (Ability in the life & death, Tesuji situation)
Study plan	If you have 100 of time for Studying Go, you should spend your time for :	50% for solving Tsumego & Tesuji problems												30% for watching local technique & Theme lectures					20% for playing serious games
Teacher's advice	Since you have joined in Yunguseng Dojang, you have improved a lot and still been improving. You've improved because your Go become more stable with more knowledge. Your stongest part is your sense of victory. Even if you have a very bad game, somehow you manage to win it. That's a gift :) I think the best way for you to study Go is incrsing this part. For that, you should study Tsumego to improve your reading ability and watch local techinque lectures to improve your sense of fight. Then, strong kyu level is not far away!																						